

John Stackhouse Presentation: Link to WebEx Event from last week

---

Dear clients,

Last week, our branch held a WebEx event with John Stackhouse, Senior Vice-President in the Office of the CEO at RBC. Though some of you may have attended this presentation live, we also have a link available below for those who missed it.

In the video, John discussed the major consumer, social and business trends that may reshape the post-Covid economy. You may remember we had sent out his recent article about this subject that we found extremely interesting. We recommend listening to this when you have time, as it provides an interesting perspective on how this crisis could rapidly speed up the adoption of trends we already see occurring in our lives, both as investors and consumers.

To view this presentation, please use the below link which has the recording of this WebEx event from last week with John Stackhouse. The video is about halfway down the web page:

Shortly, we will also be posting this to our website <https://ca.rbcwealthmanagement.com/john.ord> under the “Client Communication” tab.

A reminder that there are interesting articles continuously being updated on our “Blog” page, and for discretionary clients, we provide detailed updates on our model portfolio and market thoughts under the “Private Investment Management – PIM Client Communication” tab. You can also log into your RBC Wealth Management Online account through our website’s “DS Online” tab. There is plenty of other information on the website as well, so please be sure to visit if you haven’t in a while.

Stay safe, and enjoy the nice weather.

Best regards,

Ord Private Wealth Management
John, Tim & Liam
