

Updated Audio Commentary with Jim Allworth, Chief Investment Strategist: The path to recovery remains uncertain

RBC Wealth Management's latest thoughts on COVID-19 and its implications for the economic and investment outlook.

Following up on the call with Jim Allworth from a couple weeks ago, we wanted to provide you with another timely discussion between Jim Allworth and Mark Bayko, both members of the firm's Global Portfolio Advisory Committee. They provide an update on the outlook for markets in light of the current situation surrounding COVID-19. Despite the view that significant uncertainty remains near-term with respect to the path towards economic recovery, they continue to believe the longer-term drivers of earnings and cash flows for successful businesses remain intact.

Please take a few minutes to listen to the call below:

Listen here (approximately 14-minute duration).

If you have any questions or need further guidance, please do not hesitate to contact our team directly.