

Financial independence for single women

Investment Advisor Barb March-Burwell is focused on helping single women gain financial stability and independence. With a custom-tailored plan, you can enjoy your current lifestyle, and make sound financial and personal decisions that help you achieve your goals.

FINANCIAL INDEPENDENCE

No matter what your goals are, Barb can provide an expert opinion and industry insight on making the right investment choices. More importantly, Barb discusses your financial options with you and helps you understand what these choices mean for your personal goals. So the end result is that you're comfortable and confident in the decisions you make.

WHO CAN BARB HELP?

Barb understands the unique needs of:

- Separated or divorced women – looking to establish their individual financial plan

- Widows – who would benefit from sincere advice on how to maximize their after-tax retirement income and establish an estate plan for their family and loved ones

For nearly 20 years, Barb has been helping women:

- Build wealth and achieving long-term financial stability
- Save for their children's education
- Protect wealth and minimizing risk
- Build financial knowledge so they can become involved in the decision-making process
