

Wealth
Management

www.brendonboothman.com

Reallocating your wealth: taking a look at pools of capital

Brendon Boothman, CFP, CIM
Insurance Representative
brendon.boothman@rbc.com
306-937-5011

Molly Pederson, B.A., CFP
Associate
molly.pederson@rbc.com
306-937-5022

Colin Biblow, CFP, FMA
Estate Planning Specialist
colin.biblow@rbc.com
306-956-5202

We all have the same traditional pools of capital, within which to accumulate and invest our wealth and draw income – pension, registered and non-registered assets. Within the non-registered option there are such vehicles as equities, fixed income and mutual funds. Proper diversification and consideration of your wealth may help you achieve your lifestyle needs/ bequests and philanthropic planning desires in a tax-efficient manner that may ultimately enhance your overall wealth.

Five common pools of capital

Pool one: your pension from the government, your employer, or both

- Income is taxable while you live, but there is no residual estate value, and therefore no taxes payable at death

Pool two: your registered investments

- A tax-effective way of building wealth for your retirement
- Limited by the minimum and maximum deposits and withdrawals allowed by the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA)
- Must mature by age 71, at which time taxable income is withdrawn unless participating in a spousal/ other rollover*

- Estate value is fully taxable, resulting in the loss of approximately 50% of those assets, depending on your provincial marginal tax rate

Pool three: tax-free savings

- This is often the next option after maximizing your registered contributions

Pool four: your non-registered investments

- Interest, which is fully taxed as it is received
- Eligible dividends, which are taxed at approximately 61% of their value in the year in which they are earned
- Capital gains, which are taxed at 50% of their value, but may be deferred until investments are disposed

Pool five: tax-exempt insurance

This pool is tax-exempt life insurance. Similar to your RRSP, the contributions you make to a tax-exempt life insurance policy are limited. However, there is much more flexibility with respect to maximum deposits.

Tax-exempt life insurance is a tremendous tool for asset accumulation and wealth preservation. It can also enhance your portfolio since it adds a layer of diversification to your investments. It works by allocating deposits above the life insurance minimum premiums payable within a variety of different investments. This has the ability for tax-exempt growth over your lifetime.

Not only can tax-exempt life insurance significantly enhance the overall value of your portfolio – because the growth is not taxable – but the tax payable on your other pools of capital upon death can be paid for with your tax-free death benefit. Additionally, all proceeds are tax-free at death and go directly to your named beneficiaries.

Tax-exempt life insurance can also be used to enhance your retirement income by complementing what you’ve saved in your RRSP and TFSA employing a unique strategy that utilizes annual tax-free bank loans. By transferring a portion of your wealth every year into this solution, you not only gain access to a tax shelter, you purchase an immediate and significant benefit for your estate (the insurance coverage) and continue to maintain some degree of liquidity.

In the event of your death, the bank loan is paid from your policy and the remainder of the funds from the insurance policy is paid tax-free to your named beneficiaries.

Tax-free proceeds from your tax-exempt insurance pool can help offset the tax liabilities incurred within your other pools of capital.

To learn more, contact us today.

Five common pools of capital

By reallocating wealth from one pool of capital (the fixed income portion of your non-registered pool) to another (life insurance) you can significantly increase your net income, your estate value, or both.

Pool 1: Pension	Pool 2: Registered Retirement Savings Plan (RRSP)	Pool 3: Tax Free Savings Account (TFSA)	Pool 4: Investments	Pool 5: Tax-exempt insurance
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Registered Employer Government (CPP, OAS) 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Registered Maximum contributions (carry-forward permitted) Individual or spousal contribution 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Non-registered Maximum contributions (carry forward permitted) Tax-free growth and withdrawals 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Non-registered Interest Dividends Capital gains 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Non-registered Tax deferred growth
		Income
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Income is fully taxable 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Income is fully taxable 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Tax-free withdrawals Withdrawals create an equal amount of deposit at the beginning of the following year 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Interest and dividends are taxed in the year in which they are earned 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Potentially tax-free income
		Estate value
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> No estate value means no tax upon death Survivor continuation may apply 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Estate value is fully taxable at the individual’s marginal tax rate based on province of residence unless participating in a spousal rollover* Avoids probate if beneficiary(ies) named 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Tax-free estate values Option to participate in a spousal rollover* 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Capital gains are taxable upon death at a 25% tax rate Subject to probate and other estate fees 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Tax-free benefit upon death Avoid probate if beneficiary(ies) named

The strategies, advice and technical content presented is provided for the general guidance and benefit of our clients, based on information that we believe to be accurate, but we cannot guarantee its accuracy or completeness. This presentation is not intended as nor does it constitute legal or tax advice. Clients should consult their own lawyer, accountant or other professional advisor when planning to implement a strategy. This will ensure that their own circumstances have been considered properly and that action is taken on the latest available information. Interest rates, market conditions, tax rules, and other investment factors are subject to change.

Insurance products are offered through RBC Wealth Management Financial Services Inc. (“RBC WMFS”), a subsidiary of RBC Dominion Securities Inc.* RBC WMFS is licensed as a financial services firm in the province of Quebec. RBC Dominion Securities Inc., RBC WMFS and Royal Bank of Canada are separate corporate entities which are affiliated. *Member-Canadian Investor Protection Fund. RBC Dominion Securities Inc. and RBC WMFS are member companies of RBC Wealth Management, a business segment of Royal Bank of Canada. ©Registered Trademarks of Royal Bank of Canada. Used under licence. © 2012-2016 RBC Wealth Management Financial Services Inc. All rights reserved. 16_90908_212 (05/2016)